NUMB. 1038

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31. 1738.

N<sup>o</sup> 1046.

Yesterday arrived a Mail from Holland.

LETTERS of the 7th Instant, O. S. from Rome say, there was a prodigious Refort of People the Sunday before to Minerva's Church, to gain the Indulgences granted by the Pope to all that came thither to pray for the Divine Protection of the Emperor's Arms against the common Enemy of Christendom; and that above 2500 Persons received the Communion.

Those from Constantinople, by the Way of Venice say, that indeed there was a Tumult in that City, as has been reported; but, indeed, it lasted a very little While, the News of the Grand Seignior's Death, which occasioned it, being quickly contradicted. They add, that there had been great Rejoicings, especially in the Seraglio, for the Taking of Orsova, as also for the Retreat of the Russian Army, but the People had little or no Share in them, by reason of the Plague, which continues to make great Ravage, and because of the excessive Dearness of Provisions, which drives the Inhabitants of that great City to Despair. The Grand Seignior made a Present of a noble Sword with a Diamond Hilt to the Bashaw, and ordered a Sum of Money to be distributed among the Janizaries that were employ'd in the Siege of Orsova. The Bashaw, when he return'd to Constantinople, carry'd some Prisoners with him into that City in Triumph. The Grand Seignior likewise made a Present of a rich Casian, lined with a Sable Fur, to the Captain Bashaw, for having taken some Russian Vessels in the Sea of Asoph.

According to Letters of the 14th O. S. from Vienna, they have Advice by the last Letters from Hungary, that the Turks have not only abandoned their Undertaking against Panzova, at the Approach of the Imperial Forces, but have also retired from Vipalanka, with great Precipitation, towards Orsova; and that upon this Advice, the Colonel de Berenclau had sent detached with 300 Men towards Vipalanka, to demolish it. The Letters add, that the Troops marching towards Ratschka, being joined by two Regiments of Horse, were arrived near that Place, and that Preparations were making to pass the Save, in order to drive away the Turks, who continue on the other Side of that River.

Leghorn, Oct. 7. O. S. According to the last News from Corsica, there's the same Uncertainty as ever, with regard to Theodore's Affairs. We hear that a Ship with French Colours, which some say, was a French Ship, and others a Barbary Corfair, had taken two Sicilian Vessels laden with Ammunition, and another which had already put her Cargo of Ammunition ashore in Corsica, consisting of 300,000 lb. Weight of Gunpowder. They write from Smyrna, that the Rebels who infested the Neighbourhood of that Place, were retir'd to Mountains almost inaccessible, being drove thither by the Turks, whose Number was increased in those Parts to 30,000 Men; and that the Caravans may arrive there for the future. These Letters add, that the Rebels, before they retired, had several Skirmishes with the Turks, where they defended themselves, and were at last oblig'd to yield to Numbers. The Turks, in order to magnify their Advantages, have sent the Heads of the Rebels they have kill'd to Constantinople. The News from Barbary say, that Muley Mustard, one of the Competitors to the Crown of Morocco, who was reckon'd a Prince of a pacifick Disposition, had thrown himself into Sallee, where he committed great Violence.

The Paris A-la-main of Wednesday last mentions Letters of the 1st Inst. O. S. from Bastia, which say, that all the News they have relating to the Baron de Newhoff, is from Calvi, viz. That arriving on the 1st ult. O. S. with his Ships in the Gulph of Lagone, and that not being able to go ashore, by reason of the contrary Winds, they were oblig'd to drop Anchor in Porto Provenzala, in the Neighbourhood of Ajaccio, where the Gentleman who commands for the Republick, immediately caused a Decree to be published in all the Parts of his Jurisdiction, forbidding the Inhabitants, on Pain of the King's Displeasure, and being declared Rebels, to give the least Countenance to the said Fortune-hunter, or to buy any thing of the Ships that came with him. 'Tis said that the Friends and Relations of the Hostages sent to France, have distinguished themselves on this Occasion, by having bravely rejected Theodore's Offers, and vigorously exhorted all their Acquaintance and others, to remain quietly attach'd to the honest Party.

The Writer of the A-la-main pretends to Advice from Constantinople, that the Russians finding the War in Crim Tartary does not turn to their Account, have resolv'd not to go into that Country again; by which Means the Tartars may be able to reinforce the Turks Army with 150,000 Men.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Bristol, Oct. 28. Sunday Night last about 10 or 11 o'Clock, a most shocking Murder was perpetrated by one Wallis, who kept a Huckster's Shop, and sold Spirituous Liquors, in Wade-street, without Lawford's Gate, in the County of Gloucester, on the Body of one Edward Fincke, belonging to the Brass Works at Baptist-Mills.

The Deceased and an Acquaintance having been to view the lighted Lamps that make so handsome a Show in the Old Market, in their Return, passing by Willis's Door, he invited the Deceased to drink a Dram, which he accepted; and perceiving some Difference likely to arise between Willis and his Wife, did his Endeavour to pacify them; then retir'd to his Companion, who was waiting for him at the Door. They had not departed long, before they heard the Cry of Murder, which induced them both to go back, and pacify them again. They now intended to go Home; but had not been long out of the House before the Cry of Murder was repeated in a most violent Degree; on which they return'd again, and the Deceased went into the House as before, leaving his Companion at the Door; many Words had not pass'd before he perceiv'd Willis strike the Deceased over the Head with a Fire Shovel; on which the Deceased held up his Hand over his Head; but Willis repeating his Blows, fell'd him to the Ground flat on his Face. After which Willis's Wife, and one Betty Darby, who was then present, laid hold of his Hair, and jumbled his Head against the Ground, so that he expired immediately, without speaking one Word. After this they turn'd his Companion (who had, on this Abuse, entered the House) out of Doors, and locked themselves and the Deceased in: But raising the Neighbours, he caus'd Willis, his Wife, and Darby, to be secur'd.

Upon the Surgeon's viewing the Body, there appear'd a small Contusion of the Muscles on the Left Side of the Os Frontis, as broad as a Shilling, and a small Contusion on the Right Side. Upon opening the Skull, no Fracture or Depression was found; on the Head or Part of the Brain, appear'd near an Ounce of coagulated Blood; no Marks of any Violence on any other Part of the Body, but what's common, the Blood stagnating on the Neck and Shoulders.

The Coroner did not sit on the Body till last Night, whose Jury brought in their Verdict, Wilful Murder.

AN ESSAY upon HARMONY.

As it relates chiefly to Situation and Building. Nothing surely is more strongly imprint'd on our Minds, or more closely interwoven with our Souls, than the Idea or Sense of Order and Proportion: Hence all the Force of Numbers, and those powerful Arts founded on their Management and Use. What a Difference there is between Harmony and Discord, Cadency and Convulsion! What a Difference between composed and orderly Motion, and that which is ungovern'd and accidental! Between the regular and uniform Pile of some noble Architect, and a Heap of Sand or Stones! Between an organized Body, and a Mist or Cloud driven by the Wind.
